Second transnational meeting

On 13th December took place the second project meeting in person. The host was LINK GROUP from Belgrade, Serbia.

The purpose of the meeting was to review the Handbook and modules and to begin preparations for the youth workers training event that will take place next year in Spring and to plan the work on the GenZ4GD podcast, which will connect the topics from the learning modules and thus ensure that it will reach the main target group of the project, namely the Generation Z.

The GenZ4GD online course

The aim of the GenZ4GD online course is present to the young people learning materials covering the topics of sustainable development in general, SDGs and their importance, what young people can do and how they can contribute to SDGs, advocating green themes and policies, local actions for community development.

The partners thought best if they combine all these subjects into seven learning materials. They are covering the following topics:

- Sustainable development
- SDGs and their importance
- The 3 pillars of sustainability
- What prevents sustainable development from happening?
- How are young people contributing to SDGs?
- Advocating green themes and policies
- Local actions for community development

Each material is developed by the one partner with the most experience in the matter. The partners are hoping to encourage and empower young people to think green and to contribute to the resilience of their communities, to proposing innovative solutions, and to driving social progress and inspiring political change. The project will strive to provide the target group with the necessary skills and opportunities needed to reach their potential, in order for them to become a driving force for supporting development and contributing to peace and security.
